The faculty is a teaching and research faculty with over 200 academic members in 25 departments and numerous research groups. The faculty offers five undergraduate and two official master's degrees.

Teruel is a small and charming city in the region of Aragón. It has 12th century historic buildings, which are recognised by UNESCO as World Heritage Sites for their unique mudéjar art and architecture. You can walk from one part of the city to the other in 30 minutes. It is connected by car, train and bus to Saragossa, Valencia, Madrid and Barcelona. It is only one hour from the mediterranean sea.

Teruel has a small campus quality teacher-student interaction.

The campus is young and dynamic and is more than just a place that awards degrees. Our aim is quality in teaching. Our Tutor Project is a key part of our curriculum. Within that project, all students are assigned a mentor, who will advise them on their studies and career planning.
