During the international week, named "APPLIED PRACTICES OF INCLUSION AND EQUITY IN EDUCATION", I actively participated in both plenary and round-table discussions. Thanks to these activities we shared our institutional and country experiences on inclusion in HEIs, discussed the best practices, introduced the overcoming activities of different issues in this way, and so on.

I presented our Armenian Study on inclusion, which has been done this year by HERE-Armenia team. Definitely, I gained huge new ideas about inclusion in HEIs and I will try to disseminate the necessary information among internal and external stakeholders.

On top of that, I had an opportunity to teach to bachelor's degree students about Total diet study and chemical risk assessment. During our interactive lecture-discussion, we discussed the following crucial aspects of modern food safety: dietary exposure, risk assessment, diet study, safety level etc. The inter-week organized by UWA had only a positive impact on my professional and multi-cultural development.
